ANOTHER DEADLOCK

LAUSANNE CONFERENCE ADJOURNS

FOREIGN NATIONALS' INTERESTS

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

LAUSANNE, May 4.

The Conference has again reached deadlock with regard to the first transitory regime to replace the judicial capitulations.

Mr. Poincaré, the chief Turkish delegate, contended that the question was disposed of after the breakdown of the first conference, but the Allies disputed this. After a very lengthy discussion the sitting adjourned without agreement being reached.

LATER.

Sir Horace Rumbold assured the Turks that the Allies desired to respect Turkish sovereignty rights to the utmost compatible with the interests of foreign nationals in Turkey.

The French, Italian, and Japanese delegates supported Sir Horace Rumbold in emphasising the shortness of the transitory period.

AMERICANS INTERESTED

M. Poincaré said that Ismet, if he wanted peace, should not adopt an uncompromising attitude. It was absurd to refuse to discuss the matter. Sir Horace Rumbold and Signor Montagna declared it would be useless to continue to confer if Ismet remained obdurate.

Ismet declared the Allies were trying to impose on Turkey a thing they did not ask of any other state similarly situated. He was for peace, and if the Allies persisted the responsibility would be theirs.

Mr. Grow, the American observer, said the United States was particularly interested in the matter and was very anxious for a satisfactory arrangement. America particularly wished that the functions of the legal advisors in Turkey should be properly defined.

Ismet declared that the American representative at the first conference agreed to the previous formula with regard to the question but Mr. Grow denied this.

KRUPPS TRIAL

TOWN COMPLETELY ISOLATED.

FRENCH PRECAUTIONS

WERDEN, May 4.

The trial of Krupp von Bohlen, three directors and three officials of Krupp charged with responsibility for the events of March 30, when thirteen workmen were killed, has opened here publicly in a large hall. Colonel Coononol presiding.

There are a score of witnesses on both sides, also many pressmen, including Germans. A direct telegraph line has been laid to Paris. The town is completely isolated by strong forces of troops with tanks. Only holders of passes showing they are residents are allowed in the town.

[Herr Krupp von Bohlen, head of Krupp, was arrested after giving evidence before a French magistrate in connection with charge against three Krupp directors, who were arrested in connection with the disturbances of March 30. When the French occupied the automobile section of Krupp, the workmen struck, and assembled in a crowd outside the building. The French mounted machine-guns, and when about to withdraw suddenly fired, apparently considering the attitude of the men threatening. They killed thirteen and wounded several. The crowd then attacked and thrashed the occupants of a motor-car, who were removed by the French.]

PAN-AMERICAN CONFERENCE

MIXED SUCCESS ACHIEVED

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, May 4.

The Pan-American Conference has closed without reaching agreement on naval armaments, America, the League of Nations or the Monroe Doctrine questions, but two treaties, one for protection of American trade marks and the other for intervention in the "fact finding" commission in the settlement of international disputes, were adopted. International co-operation for stamping out disease was also arranged.

The task of codifying American international law and the Costa Rican plan for an American court of justice were referred to a congress of jurists meeting at Rio de Janeiro in 1925.

The President of Chile invited the Presidents of the Argentine, Brazil and Uruguay to confer at Monte Video in September with a view to settling differences which have arisen over the armament question and which there is a prospect will be settled by the pan-American conference.

Several people were injured.]

A bulky "O.H.M.S." envelope to which a decidedly pungent odour clung found its way into the China Mail-Office this morning. An accompanying letter disclosed that it came from the Inspector of English Schools (Mr. E. Ralphs) and that it contained a sample of a large crop of onions grown by the pupils of the "Tat Wei" School now in the New Territories.

Gardening is being encouraged as much as possible in the schools, especially in the New Territories, and where the crops are big enough to yield a profit this money goes to a special school fund for the benefit of the scholars.

Invited to test the sample on behalf of the China Mail, the official, furnished an entirely favourable report.

COMPANY MEETING.

LANE, CRAWFORD, LTD.

The first annual ordinary general meeting of the shareholders of Lane, Crawford, Ltd., was held at the Hongkong Hotel at noon today. Mr. J. Scott Harston was in the chair and was supported by Messrs. A. S. D. Couland, A. R. Lowe, M. Manuk, and J. H. Taggart (Directors), R. L. Bridger and P. M. Crawford (Managing Directors), and S. J. Jordan (Secretary).

The other shareholders present were: Messrs. A. Walton Brown, D. K. Kharas, A. S. Ellis, S. M. Churn, W. Muefardane and H. A. Lammert.

The Chairman in the following speech outlined the activities of the Company for the period under review:—

Gentlemen:—The report and accounts have been in your hands for the prescribed period and I propose therefore, with your permission, to take them as read. The net profit for the year, after making the allowance for depreciation is $203,764.94. This amount your Directors recommend shall be appropriated as follows:—

To pay a Dividend of $1 per share on 125,000 shares, amounting to $125,000.00

To place to General Reserve 50,000.00

To pay a Bonus to Staff (approximately 10%) 12,500.00

To carry forward to New Account 16,264.94

$203,764.94

which I trust will meet with your approval.

In regard to such appropriation, I would remark that your Directors consider it a sound one, because, as the amount to be appropriated is the result of the first year's working of the Company it is essential to create a Reserve Fund. With regard to the bonus for the staff, I feel sure that this will be agreed to by you, because our staff is a particularly hard-working one, and it is to a great extent due to their efforts that we are able to present what I think you will agree is, for a first year's working, a very good report.

The stocks of the Company are held absolutely clean, and have in every case when the present cost would be less, been reduced to replacement cost.

In June last, your Board decided to issue a further 25,000 shares at par, thus bringing the total issued capital of the Company up to $1,250,000. The purpose of this issue was to enable the Company to acquire a controlling interest in the business of William Powell, Limited.

Your Board considered this a very favourable transaction. In February last, negotiations were entered into with the promoters of the Hongkong Realty and Trust Company, Limited for the sale of the site which is generally known as the Wiseman site (Section A of Marine Lot No. 7), and the sale thereof has since been duly completed, the purchase price being $1,000,000 which brings a very satisfactory profit to this Company.

The property No. 147 Praya East has now been disposed of, the sale thereof having been carried through on the 1st instant. The price obtained was $33,000, which transaction also shows a substantial profit to us.

In view of this sale, your Directors deemed it advisable to purchase the property shown on the balance sheet as No. 17, Burrows Street, which they acquired at a very reasonable figure. The manufacture of furniture is now being carried on at the last mentioned premises instead of at No. 147, Praya East as previously.

Your Company, during the year under review, also entered into an agreement for the purchase from the Hongkong Hotel Company, Limited of Powell's Building on very favourable terms. In February last your Company in conjunction with the Dairy Farm Ice & Cold Storage Company Limited opened a store at the Peak Hotel for the convenience of Peak Residents. It is not anticipated that this will cause any appreciable increase in revenue, but in addition to materially assisting the Company's patrons, it has the effect of keeping the Company's name before the public. An arrangement has now been arrived at whereby the Dairy Farm Ice and Cold Storage Company Limited's branch in Canton will act as our Distributing Agents in that port, and from the 1st instant all orders from Canton for provisions will be executed by them. The effect of this will be that our customers there will be relieved of the inconvenience of themselves obtaining delivery of goods, passing same through the Customs and paying duty, etc.

In conclusion I would like to add on behalf of your Board, and I think all present will agree with me therein, that our hearty thanks are due to your Managing Directors, Messrs. Crawford, Bridger and Bostock for the excellent results achieved by the Company in this the first year of its existence.

I now beg to formally propose that the report and accounts of the Company for the financial year ending 28th February, 1923, (in-

CANTON FIGHTING.

SUN'S TROOPS ADVANCE.

WAR MATERIAL CAPTURED.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

CANTON, May 4.

Sun's forces have taken up the offensive all along the North River front and have rapidly recovered the gains which were wrested from them when the Northern troops came to the assistance of Shum's.

Ching Yuen and Pa Kong are reported to have been retaken and there is now talk of assaults on Yung Yuen and Ying Tack. The loss of Pa Kong means a serious blow at the Kwangsi-ites as they have to retire some distance to preserve their alignment.

By advancing along the Canton-Shiukwan Railway Sun's troops have come into large quantities of war material and rolling stock for the railway.

It now appears as if Sun is concentrating on this front in an endeavour to score a decisive defeat before rounding up Shum's men and his allies on the West and East Rivers.

TO-DAY'S GYMKHANA.
FINAL SELECTIONS.

[BY MILES.]

As I write these notes, there is every prospect of the weather holding fine for the Gymkhana at Happy Valley this afternoon. Writing yesterday, I was under the impression that Crusader was among today's entries, but this is not so.

The chief event to-day is the Gymkhana Stakes for which Speckled Mouse was a firm favourite. Everyone will sympathise with Mr. Henry Humphreys, the owner, who has been forced to scratch the pony for all events as he is lame. This alters the outlook entirely for the main event of the day, which now looks a good thing for Petrol King, provided his rider can go to scale at 146 lbs. The rain of the past week has taken the "chance" out of the ground and the going should be excellent. My final selections are:—

CANTON CELEBRATIONS.

TO-DAY'S GENERAL HOLIDAY.

To-day, May 5th, will be a holiday in Canton. The Cantonese will take this day off, the Canton Daily News says, to show their appreciation of the service of the Great Southern leader, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, for Canton and the Republic, and incidentally celebrate the success of the Constitutionalists in arms along the North and the West River districts thus far. All Government offices will be closed to business and students, labourers, political organizations, and others will hold parades most of them in the day time and some in the evening.

The grand parade of the day will commence at nine o'clock in the morning, all meeting in front of the Canton-Kowloon Railroad Station, except the students, who will assemble in front of the East Garden. In line will be troops, military bands, decorated motor cars, carriages, dragon and lion players, Chinese bands, floats, and others.

In the evening, there will be a lantern parade on land, and a water procession on the river. Illuminations from launches and house boats will be the principal features.

The famous Cantonese dragon boats will be seen along the river.

cluding the apportionment recommended by the Directors as therein indicated) as presented be adopted, and I shall be obliged if some shareholder will kindly second such proposal whereupon questions as to the report and accounts may be raised.

Mr. H. A. Lammert seconded the proposal and it was carried unanimously.

On the proposition of Mr. S. M. Churn, seconded by Mr. W. Muefardane, Mr. M. Manuk was unanimously re-elected a director.

Messrs. Linstead & Davis were unanimously re-elected auditors on the motion of Mr. A. S. Ellis, seconded by Mr. A. Walton Brown.

LOCAL TENNIS.

TO-MORROW'S INTERESTING MATCH.

SOME GENERAL COMMENT.

To-morrow, weather permitting, we shall be able to compare to a certain extent the tennis players of Singapore and Hongkong. It is unfortunate that our own champion, Ng Sze Kwong, should be away at present, for a match between him and Honda would have had an Inter-Port flavour. However we may have that at a later date. Honda the Singapore champion is also champion of the combined Straits and F.M.S. Last August in a very tame game he beat Dean in the final of the Singapore championship in 2 straight sets—they play the best of 3 sets there—and 3 weeks later at Kuala Lumpur when the champions of the various F.M. States as well as those from Penang, Malacca, and Singapore met Honda emerged victorious.

In these games without being brilliant or forcing he was deadly sure and won rather by the mistakes of his opponents than by his own excellence. As O. Rumjahn adopts similar tactics and is possessed of the same imperturbable temperament we can predict a long-drawn-out, four contest at the I.R.U. ground.

In our Championship Tournaments this year what promised to be an unusually bright and entertaining competition fizzled out badly owing to the breakdown of Lt. Commander Worthington and H. D. Rumjahn. This affected both the Singles and the Doubles competitions in both cases. Other noteworthy events were the defeat of M. W. Lo, whom we have regarded as our second best player for the last three years, and the return of our former champion "Sammy" Green. Of the five Rumjahn playing H. D. the conqueror of M. W. Lo is the best and the youngest. We shall watch his further progress with interest.

Neither M. W. Lo nor Ng Sze Kwong were up to their former standards. It is futile to conjecture what would have happened had Hancock and Worthington met the Rumjahn. But there is one thing patent, admitting of no doubt; if anyone wants to go far in these championships not only must he take the matter seriously and practise, not only for weeks but for months, but he must also be in first class physical condition. The Rumjahn and the Ismail are knocking at the door, and hard at their heels are younger C.R.C. members desirous of emulating the feats of Ng Sze Kwong, so it behoves any aspiring European not to take the matter lightly. At present the only Englishman with the ghost of a chance is Worthington, and even his prospects of becoming champion are not very rosy. The most promising of the younger English players is C. W. Bishop, who, though not more than a novice, has some good raw material. He is splendidly built, is young, and seems to be keen. He has a lot to learn, but if he cares to concentrate on the game he ought to go far. And as a last word let us congratulate Ng Sze Kwong on winning his sixth successive championship.

It was learned at the local office of the British American Tobacco Company this morning that no further news has been received from Mr. Rowson, who is a captive in the hands of a gang of bandits. ## CHARTERED BANK.

NEW SHANGHAI BUILDING.

OFFICIAL OPENING CEREMONY.

A MAGNIFICENT EDIFICE.

"No one had any idea of its beauty until coming inside it." These words of a speaker at the opening of the magnificent new home of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, by Mr. Sidney Barton, C.M.G., H. M. Consul-General, on April 28, must, says the N.C. Daily News, have summed up the impressions of the huge gathering at the ceremony. The Italian marble interior is severe and dignified, practically without ornamentation, but the effect is altogether striking. The same note of simplicity is a feature of the exterior, but there are carved keystones to the ground floor windows, representing India, Australia and China, the last mentioned being over the entrance doorway of the offices on the north side. The Chartered Bank being the senior foreign bank in the Settlement, rams' heads, representing the first Sign of the Zodiac, are incorporated in the design. Lions heads on the handsome bronze lamp brackets on each side of the entrance are emblematic of the British nationality of the bank.

The bronze entrance gates are very fine examples of British workmanship. Their design is Oriental in feeling, but in detail Greek, the motives being the same as used in the banking hall. Shell-shaped brackets on all sides of the columns inside the building are not the least prominent features. The lights themselves are hidden and the rays thrown upwards. With the exception of the woodwork, the whole of the wall, floors and ceiling lining in the banking hall came from England. The marble is Italian, but was worked in London. A coffered ceiling came out in sections from Home, as well as the architraves and other decorations.

CEREMONY OF THE KEYS.

The big crowd of foreigners and Chinese assembled outside the new building at 11.30 a.m. Mr. Sidney Barton was presented with a golden key with which to open the building. Mr. H. Richardson, managing director of Messrs. Trollope & Colls (Far East) Ltd., the contractors, in making the presentation, stated that the completion of the edifice marked one more step in the development of Shanghai, as well as a further testimony to British enterprise and progress.

After the ceremony, the guests entered the building to hear a number of interesting speeches and honour the appropriate toasts. Among those who attended in addition to Mr. Sidney Barton were Mr. C. J. Scott, manager of the bank, and Mrs. Scott; Mr. John Alston, manager of the Yokohama branch; Col. M. H. Logan, M.C., and Mr. G. L. Wilson, of Messrs. Palmer & Turner, the architects; Mr. H. Richardson; M. Wilden, French Consul-General and Commander Esteva, commanding the French man-of-war "Colmar," accompanied by the staff.

THE CONSUL'S SPEECH.

Mr. Barton, proposing the toast of the bank, said:

We are met to-day to celebrate the opening of another of those great modern buildings of which British commercial enterprise is now contributing so many to Shanghai as evidence of a belief in the future of this port. The Chartered Bank of India, Australia & China is an institution well qualified to give such testimony, for it enjoys the proud distinction of being the oldest of the foreign banks now in existence at Shanghai, with whose development it has itself grown up. Where the Chartered Bank leads, others may safely follow.

The Bank's charter dates from 1853 and Shanghai was one of the first branches opened in 1857. They numbered five at that date. They now number 39, scattered round the world from London to New York. Three other banks had opened branches in Shanghai before that date, namely the Oriental, the Chartered Mercantile and the Agra Bank, but not one of these exists to-day, though the site on which we now stand was formerly occupied by the Oriental Bank, from whom the Chartered Bank bought it 30 years ago. The passing of these banks is a reminder to us that the assured position held by British banking institutions in this country to-day has not been lightly won, but is the result of integrity, combined with that patient and sympathetic study of local conditions which alone can earn the confidence of the foreign trader and native merchant, to which confidence this gathering bears evident witness. The China market is rich in present and even richer in future possibilities, but it cannot be captured by unbusinesslike and uncommercial progress made by the Chartered Bank during the past 70 years is typical of a method of approach in keeping with the best British traditions.

PRESENT DAY QUALITIES.

We are apt to blame the early founders of this Settlement for the lack of foresight which gave us the narrow streets and consequent congestion of to-day, but just as the City of London's narrow streets have failed to cramp the vision of her financiers and merchants as they grapple with the world problems which confront our own generation, so here (if we may compare small things with great) the buildings which we see springing up around us show that the dwellers in our mean streets are not blinded to the future, but are prepared to raise, on foundations well and truly laid during a century of friendly intercourse with the people of this country, an edifice worthy of the trade that is to be.

We are passing through at the moment, it is true, a time of unusual difficulty, both political and commercial, but we have passed through similar times before, and if it be said that the difficulties confronting business in China to-day are greater than ever before, is it not equally true that our resources are also greater—greater, that is, in accumulated experience and in wide knowledge and understanding of the great people amongst whom we dwell and in closer co-operation with whom lies the secret of our ultimate success? While we admire the marble halls in which we are guests to-day, we know that, just as in war it is the spirit of the man who handles the mighty modern weapons which really counts, so in the commercial arena, it is the spirit of the man who works in our modern skyscrapers which gives life and meaning to these buildings. The bank which is to work here has a great tradition of service to the commercial community—a tradition which has not only brought it to its present position of eminence, but is a guarantee that dignified surroundings and larger opportunities will but act as an incentive to increase service in the future. So long as this spirit prevails in our British institutions we can face our lot with confidence.

It cannot be without interest to a Shanghai audience to recall the fact that among the directors of the Bank is now numbered Sir John Jordan, who after 45 years spent in the service of his country in China, I doubt not is glad to testify by his presence among that group of distinguished men to the essential unity between British commercial and official endeavour and to the importance which London attaches to the Chinese portion of this bank's wide-ranging activities. If any doubt could exist as to the ever increasing attention of which Shanghai is now deemed worthy at Home, it should be dispelled by a realization of the fact that this building has been constructed by the well-known London firm of Messrs. Trollope & Colls, who, having discovered Shanghai, will, we hope, find it worth while to remain to represent in China the best type of British construction.

Mr. Scott, I thank you for the honour you have done me in asking me to be present to-day.

CONFIDENCE IN SHANGHAI.

Mr. C. J. Scott, responding, said:—The Chartered Bank has been associated with the interests and development of Shanghai since 1856, and to the spirit of progress and improvement which has characterized the city down the long years since then, the Chartered Bank now gives its expression. It is a solid evidence of the confidence which the directors have in the continued prosperity of the trade of Shanghai and of the potentialities of China. As you can imagine, this is one of the great days in my life. I have been in Shanghai on and off for more than 20 years, and I have always looked forward to the day in which the Chartered Bank would be suitably housed in a building such as we have opened to-day. I already have been told by many friends that the exterior is much admired and I hope that the interior now that you have had the opportunity of seeing it, also has your approval. These offices are not quite finished, and it will probably be another two weeks before we can open for business here. I was, however, anxious to have this opening in time for an old friend of mine, Mr. Alston, for many years manager of the Bank in Yokohama and now on his way home, to be present. We worked together here in Shanghai many years ago, and I know he would like to be here and carry with him in person to the directors something of what he saw and heard at the opening ceremony. I have to thank our constituents for having continued to support us while we were in our temporary quarters, which must have been very inconvenient for them. As soon as we are able to re-visit them by going to a very efficient service, we may take us a few days to settle in, but so soon as we have found our feet, I am certain you will have no complaints to make.

LINER SCENE.

STRANGE DIVORCE CASE.

"WOULD RATHER DIE."

In the Divorce Court, London, Mr. Justice Horridge heard the petition of Mrs. Minnie Florence M'Carthy, of Kensington Hall Gardens, a music hall artist, professionally known as Marie Kendall, for the dissolution of her marriage on the grounds of cruelty and misconduct of her husband, John Joseph M'Carthy, who did not defend the suit.

Mrs. M'Carthy accused her husband of misconduct with Miss Daisy May, a servant, who intervened. Mrs. Florence May Rennie, of Southport, gave evidence that in July, 1913, she was on the "Balmoral Castle" on which petitioner and her husband were going to South Africa. While Mrs. M'Carthy was showing a photograph of her daughter to some of the passengers, her husband rushed up and took her by the back of the neck and dragged her into the cabin. Witness followed, and she saw Mr. M'Carthy throw his wife to the floor. She got between them and parted them.

Later he said he was sorry for his conduct, and he hoped that his wife would forgive him, as he had always found her one of the best of women. Miss Daisy Emma May (the intervener) said she was 28 years of age, and her home was in Surrey. She had never committed misconduct with the respondent.

Mr. J. J. M'Carthy, the respondent, gave evidence that he returned from the war much injured in health. He had never committed misconduct with Daisy May.

Cross-examined, witness declared that he had committed misconduct, but he would rather die than divulge the lady's name, as she had more sympathy in her little finger for him than all his family, excepting his father and son.

Mr. Justice Horridge, in giving his decision, said that the respondent in his evidence had admitted misconduct, and he found the cruelty proved, and therefore there must be a decree nisi.

The girl May impressed him in the way she gave her evidence. He was not prepared to find that the girl had committed misconduct with respondent. Therefore he allowed the intervention of Miss May, with costs, and dismissed her from the suit. He gave the petitioner a decree nisi, with costs.

DIFFICULT YEARS.

The last few years have been very difficult ones for us all and we have had to pass through very anxious times, but I hope and trust that the opening of this new building will be a happy augury and that we shall soon see trade reviving and more prosperous times ahead for both merchants and banks. I have to thank our Chinese friends for their support and assistance and also for their expression of good wishes for our future success which has been expressed in such a marked manner as you will observe from the numerous gifts we have received and which adorn the front portion of this office. On behalf of the bank I have also to thank our architects, Messrs. Palmer and Turner, and our contractors, Messrs. Trollope and Colls. It was due to the initiative of Col. Logan that our contractors came out to Shanghai, and the experiment has in every way been a success. The design of the building was carried out by Mr. Wilson and the result speaks for itself. We could not wish to be housed in a more handsome building. Our contractors have had a great deal of difficulty to contend with, and I have to thank Mr. Richardson and Mr. Dye for the very satisfactory result of their labours.

Col. Logan, replying on behalf of the architects, said:—Mr. G. L. Wilson, one of my partners, should really be returning thanks, as he is the actual architect of the building, but he is too bashful, and so it has fallen to my lot to reply for him and the other members of the staff who have taken a large share in the design and superintendence of the erection of this building. In this connection I would mention the name of Mr. F. A. Collard.

The conduct of a large building operation such as this, like the course of true love, does not always run smoothly and the architects unfortunately in many cases find themselves at loggerheads with either the building's owner or the contractors and sometimes with both. In this case, however, no regrettable differences of opinion have arisen, and I rejoice to say that Mr. Scott, Messrs. Trollope and Colls, and ourselves still remain friends. As soon as we are able to re-visit them by going to a very efficient service, we may take us a few days to settle in, but so soon as we have found our feet, I am certain you will have no complaints to make.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN."

EPIC FILM AT STAR.

Readers of Vicente Blasco Ibañez's sensational novel "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" will be delighted with the fidelity with which, in the film version of it which is being shown on Monday at the Star Theatre, Kowloon, the scenarist has stuck to the details of the actual story. It is an epic tale of human passion shown up in strong relief against the background of the Great War and the dramatic force of it becomes intensified on the screen.

The actors—and there are fifty principals and 2,500 "extras" in the picture—have been selected with an astonishing intuition for the ideal types. The highest honours are carried off by Rudolph Valentino, a young Italian who won fame as an exhibition dancer before he began his screen career. He appears as Julio Deanyores, the spoiled grandson of old Madaraga, the fabulously wealthy Argentine ranch owner and Valentino seems to have been born for the role. He is a perfect embodiment of the handsome, graceful, pleasure-loving Latin type—an alluring figure, made for romantic love and, when necessary, for relentless fighting. Around him the main thread of the story is woven.

WORLD CRUISE.

EARL'S SON IN MOTOR-YACHT.

One of the most gallant little ships ever launched, nosed her way on March 29 down Southampton Water to the Solent and the sea, setting out on a voyage round the world. She is Fantome II, a 600-ton barque-rigged motor-yacht belonging to the Hon. Ernest Guinness, second son of the Earl of Iveagh.

Her 40,000-mile cruise will be a dream of delight for a big "house party" whom Mr. Guinness is taking with him. The yacht, which last year made a cruise of 4,000 miles, reaching a point 300 miles from the North Pole—is like a beautiful house, and is fitted with every convenience that a perfectly appointed mansion could offer. The first part of call will be Gibraltar, where Mrs. Guinness, who is one of the keenest of yachswomen, will join her husband. Several of their friends will also go aboard there.

From Gibraltar the yacht will go to the Canary Islands, then to Trinidad, and through the Panama Canal to the Fiji Islands, Japan, and Borneo, returning home through the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean. The cruise is expected to last about a year.

CHURCH NOTES.

THE FIFTH SUNDAY AFTER EASTER.

The teaching of St. James in tomorrow's Epistle is the continuation of his message for last week when he taught the difficult precept "swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath." True religion must bear fruit in practice, there must be a constant study of the Gospel idea to attain it. When St. James speaks of the "perfect law of liberty," he means the ethical teaching of Jesus Christ especially in the Sermon on the Mount—it is a law because it imposes definite obligations; it is a perfect law, for by it Christ fulfilled the old law; it is a law of liberty because we choose or reject it with our own free will. We are warned of the hollowness of religious observances and practices which do not lead to personal discipline, especially control of our tongues—we cannot remind ourselves too often of Christ's words of condemnation: "Every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment."

"The deeds we do, the words we say—

Into still air they seem to fleet,

We count them over past;

But they shall last!

In the dread Judgment they

And We shall meet!

Again the beloved Disciple speaks of the necessity of believing in the Divinity of Christ. When in the Gospel the disciples say, "We believe that Thou comest forth from God," they are told plainly that their faith is still imperfect.

Jesus cannot accept this confession of faith as adequate and He warns them of their coming defection. "Do ye now believe? Behold the hour cometh that ye shall be scattered every man to his own and shall leave Me alone." They have acknowledged no more than Nicodemus and he needed to be born again before he could see spiritually—a recognition that our Lord is not enough, we must make the confession made by St. Peter in his moment of great spiritual insight

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

Jesus tells His disciples the way in which they are to pray after His Ascension. Prayer must be addressed through Him, in union with Him, trusting in the power of His intercession, and must ask for things in accordance with His will.

Then will our prayer be answered and our joy fulfilled.

Thursday is the Feast of the Ascension, the day on which Jesus

Christ "sat down at the right hand of God" the day on which He opened the Kingdom of Heaven to all believers. The Gospel for the day describes a visible Ascension, a symbolical act intimating to the Apostles our Lord's withdrawal from their sight into a spiritual sphere and though regarded from earthly sight within reach of spiritual faculties illuminated by the gift of faith.

Before our Lord's Ascension, during the great forty days, He instructed the disciples, and St. Luke in the Acts makes the Ascension the starting point of the history of the Church. What these instructions were we learn partly from the definite record—the world-wide character of the Church; the institution of Baptism; the commission to remit or retain sins; the establishment of the Lord's Day as the weekly memorial of the Resurrection.

"When He had ceased, a mighty wind rushed by

From far beyond the sunset's cloudless rim,

And over them a glory seemed to bend;

Then like a star He rose into the sky

Sadly they watched the glowing light grow dim;

And heard the echoes ring, "Until

the End."

"Master," said the young disciple

"Which is the surest way to Heaven?"

"My son," replied the aged saint

"the righteous man has many ways, but the sinner has only one, that in the way of Love. And greater Love can no man have than this,

that a man spend his life doing good to his friend. Yet the one thing that men dread most is the being detected in being kind—and so they wrap up their talent of Love in the mantle of shame—and only few are in the way of being saved."

Mrs. Mudge Grayson, better known by her stage name, Madge

Compton, was granted a decree nisi in the Divorce Court against her husband, Mr. George Grayson, the well-known comedian.

By defeating Southampton 1-0,

at Birmingham, West Ham United qualified to meet Derby County in the Football Association Cup semifinal. "England" beat Belgium,

6-1, in the match at Highbury.

"CLAUDIUS CLEAR."

SIR ROBERTSON NICOLL DEAD.

Sir William Robertson Nicoll, who for exactly half his life has been editor of the British Weekly, is dead, according to a cable from London to-day. He was born in 1851, and 35 years ago, in 1886, he started the British Weekly, the publication which caused a minor revolution in the world of literary "reviews," says the Times.

"Born at Lumsden, in Aberdeenshire, he was trained for the ministry of the Free Church. After performing his duties for a little while he had a serious illness and was ordered by his doctors to come to the South. He left Scotland plain 'William.' For many years he received the honour of knighthood, and 'Claudius Clear' became 'Sir William.' That he has been editor of the same paper for 35 years is in itself an achievement. He has been an active literary force even longer. He has led a full life.

THE WAY TO JOURNALISM.
"Sir William described to a Times correspondent how he first was led astray into the tempting paths of journalism. 'I was a journalist,' he declared with pride, 'before ever I came to London. While I was still a Free Church minister I contributed largely to the local Press and was very proud indeed of my contributions. Then came my illness and I made my way South—like many of my countrymen. That was the beginning of my career as the world knows it.'

"He left Scotland in 1885 and came to London as literary adviser of the publishing house of Hodder and Stoughton. That connection remained unbroken until his recent illness. 'They were always very good to me,' he said, 'and now that the fathers have gone and the sons have taken their places, my position has remained pleasantly unchanged. In addition to being literary adviser to the firm, I soon became something more, and from more or less passive work I came to really active literary advice when I associated myself with the Examiner. But that was only a stepping-stone. In the following year we started the British Weekly, and it is with that periodical that my life since then has been largely identified.'

"THE BRITISH WEEKLY was decidedly a revolutionary publication. At the time at which Sir William came to London the leading weekly reviews were very stiff and very dogmatic in their style and in their ideas. It soon struck him that there must be a very large public which wanted books and writers discussed in a more popular way. The British Weekly was founded to disseminate literature and the discussion of literature among the masses. Previously the literary publications had intentionally appealed only to the select few. The British Weekly (eventually) appealed to everybody, although not until after a very hard struggle.

"For the first three months, Sir William said, 'it was touch and go the whole time, and I did not find the position of editor a very lucrative post. We soon, however, broke down all the prejudice against so novel a venture, and before the year was out the periodical had established itself. I was editor then, and I have been editor ever since, and as I look back I am convinced that that preliminary struggle was well worth while.'

"THE BOOKMAN." "Five years afterwards he started the Bookman, which, among other things, is distinguished for being the first literary periodical with illustrations. Thirty years ago it was a very daring thing to undertake the publication of an illustrated journal of that kind. 'Thus you see,' he went on, 'I have led a comparatively busy life. In addition to becoming the editor of two journals, I remained literary adviser to Messrs. Hodder and Stoughton, and between these three duties my life was pretty well occupied.'

"Asked how he had managed to find time to prepare for the Press the formidable list of books that stands to his credit in any reputable library, he deprecated the term 'books.' Most of these publications, he pointed out, were little more than reprints, and it was not a very arduous process to get them ready for publication. And that is all that he would say about his writings for the library.

"He was not so reticent with regard to his fellow-authors. 'When I arrived in London,' he said, 'I soon, from the nature of my work, became acquainted with the leading literary figures of the time. Of all the editors of London papers that I then met there is not one now in active work. I am the only one left. Of the other literary figures very many have died. The death of Mr. Austin Dobson a few weeks ago particularly saddened me. We were very great friends, and I always admired his character and work. In my opinion, he was a very distinguished writer, indeed, and I feel convinced that many of

STABILITY IN LITERATURE.

"It seems to me that a very interesting study could be written of the contrast between the writers of 35 years ago and those of to-day. Personally, I think that there was more 'stability' in literature when I first came to London. The tendency of modern thought and the Great War have caused many revolutions in contemporary literature, and we have had a certain amount of brilliance, but very little stability."

"When Sir William mixed in the literary life of London there were certainly both stability and brilliance. As befits a Scotsman, he greatly admired Robert Louis Stevenson, and he had, and still has, a special affection for Barrie. An idea of the company with whom he was enabled to mix—first, by virtue of his position, and then by virtue of his own personal attraction—can be gathered from the fact that among the contributors to the Bookman were Barrie, Walter Pater, Edmund Yates, Swinburne, Watts-Dunton, A. C. Benson, A. E. W. Mason, and Frederick Wedmore.

ADVANCE IN NEWSPAPERS.

"Asked whether he thought the modern newspaper seemed to him to have improved since the time when he first arrived in London, without hesitation he answered that the stride forward in the newspaper world had been very great indeed. 'The papers are now more attractive, and yet they do not seem to me to leave anything out. You have only to compare the Times of to-day with the Times of 20 years ago to realise the vast advance that has taken place. There is one thing, however, that is still not very pleasing. There are still too many rather bitter personalities in many of our leading newspapers. That is not an improvement on the newspaper of 20 years ago. Sir William's reading can be judged from his library. It entirely fills two rooms of the rambling old house. It contains about 25,000 volumes, and these include 10,000 books of memoirs. 'The most precious book to my owner' is the copy of Venice by Henry James. Thackeray gave to Charlotte Bronte a copy of Henry James on the 10th of May. There is also in this library the original manuscript of Barrie's The Little Minister."

MARINE COURT.

UNLAWFULLY BOARDING A STEAMER

At the Marine Court this morning, before Commander Beckwith, R.N., Leung Tak Cheong, master of cargo boat 2970V, Chan Yee, mistress of boat No. 2403Y, Ng Yang, mistress of No. 2602V, and Chan Leck, mistress of boat 2726V, were charged with unlawfully mooring their boat inshore at a distance of less than 100 yards from low water mark, between the hours of 9 p.m. yesterday and 5 a.m. this morning. All accused pleaded guilty. A fine of $2 each was imposed, in default seven days' jail.

Tam Cheong and Lai Lun were charged with unlawfully boarding the s.s. "Havenstein" in the harbour yesterday, without permission of the master. Both defendants pleaded not guilty.

A Chinese detective testified that both men had boarded the vessel when they saw him they returned to their sampan and hid in the hold, where he arrested them.

Tam Cheong, who was very valuable throughout the case, said the detective was lying.

When asked by the Magistrate why they had hid in the hold, both accused claimed that they had accidentally slipped there.

The second defendant was cautioned and discharged. The Magistrate promising to find him a job if he would refrain from associating with men of the stamp of Tam Cheong, who had been previously convicted and bore, according to police testimony, a very bad record. Tam was sent to prison for one month.

CORRESPONDENCE.

FOREMEN AND FITTERS.

[To the Editor of the China Mail.]

"Sir,—In the large engineering works in this Colony the workmen have suffered a good deal of injustice at the hands of their Chinese foremen. During recent years these foremen have become even more oppressive. Too frequently they levy blackmail when taking workmen into employment, requiring each workman to agree to pay them a certain sum daily before allowing him to commence work. A workman who agrees to the foreman's extortion is given work as often as possible. Overtime work on Sundays and at night are also given to him, because the more money the workman earns the more blackmail will be able to pay the foreman. This blackmail sometimes consists of payment of a lump sum of several tens of dollars. Apprentices are not given a position until they have given a present of $50 or $60 to the foreman. Engineering fitters who are properly qualified do not submit to this kind of conduct and call the men who do "Chu Tsai" (i.e. slave coolies) because most of them are coolies or farm labourers only, and the term "Chu Tsai" is given to them because they practically sell themselves to the foremen and help him to enrich himself. It must, however, be said that there are some foremen who are honest and just and who will not act in this underhand manner. But these are very rare. Many properly qualified fitters, on account of their opposition to the evil doings of the foremen, have incurred their displeasure and been dismissed from their work. Men who champion the cause of the oppressed have now laid the facts before the manager of a certain engineering firm in Kowloon exposing the evil conduct of the foremen and the fact that certain employees are really not qualified fitters and the said Manager is now anxious to investigate the matter. If this can result in preventing the foremen from continuing to practise their nefarious ways it will not only make it easier for properly qualified fitters to make a living but will also save the large engineering firms from much loss. Yours, etc.,
